SENATOR ALLARD POINTS
TO STRONG JOB GROWTH IN COLORADO, AND ACROSS NATION
Colorado creates 10,400 new jobs over past 12 months

WASHINGTON, D.C. – U.S. Senator Wayne Allard hailed the strong job growth evident in state-by-state employment data released Friday by the U.S. Department of Labor.

“Colorado created 1,600 jobs in May alone, and has created 10,400 new jobs in the past 12 months,” Senator Allard said. “This is great news for our state’s economy.”

According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, job creation was up in 44 of the 50 states during the past year, and the unemployment rate was down in all regions.

“Nearly 1 million new American jobs have been created in the last 100 days alone,” Senator Allard said. “The President’s tax cuts have made the economy strong, and it’s growing stronger. The economy has shifted into high gear, factories are busier, families are earning more and home ownership continues to rise. Minority home ownership is at its highest level ever. People are finding work.”
